Dining Chair

Description

The Ridley Dining Chair celebrates simplicity, comfort, and the natural beauty of solid timber. Designed in-house by our Melbourne team, Ridley is available in solid Messmate or Marri, each piece highlighting the distinctive grain and tone of its Australian hardwood.

A generous filleted curve through the seat and backrest defines its form — a subtle yet distinctive detail that enhances both visual softness and ergonomic support. Thoughtfully designed to be stackable, Ridley offers practicality without compromising its refined aesthetic.

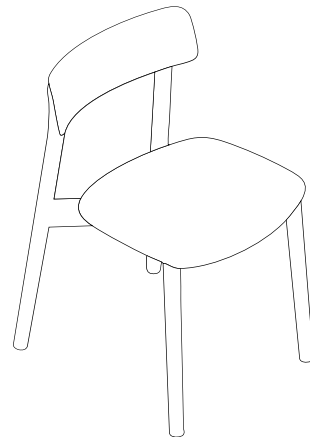

Material

MESSMATE

Messmate is an Australian eucalypt distinguished by pale to medium golden tones, with gum veins and organic markings that echo its former life in the forest. A satin clear coat lends a gentle lustre while forming a resilient barrier that preserves the timber's surface through daily use. Robust yet calming, it offers a neutral foundation with character, pairing beautifully with textured stone and earthy fabrics across both traditional and contemporary settings.

MARRI

Marri timber is a distinctive Australian hardwood known for its rich honey tones, striking gum veins, and bold grain patterns. Native to Western Australia, it combines strength with natural beauty, making it a popular choice for furniture that feels both robust and full of character. Each piece of Marri is inherently unique, with organic variations that highlight the timber's raw, expressive nature.
